Peking, China, Jan. 23.—The Emperor Dowager after carefully weighing the opinions expressed by the princes of the imperial court and leading Manchus officials during yesterday's conference at the palace, is inclined to the resumption of hostilities in the only solution of the present situation.

It is understood that Premier Yuan Shi Kai has agreed to fight for the throne. It is believed, however, that he will avoid an attack by the rebels. The foreign legation on the other hand considers that the abdication of the throne has been deferred only for a time.

In Conference Regarding Commutation of Sentences Given as Cause of Situation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madrid, Spain, Jan. 23.—Premier Canalejas virtually has resigned. It is understood the contemplated retirement of the minister is due to the coolness of the King in his audience with the premier in regard to the commutation of the sentence of death pronounced by a council of war on the revolutionists involved in the murder of a judge and the wounding of several court officials at Calera, in the province of Valencia last September. The reprovals of the revolutionists angered the conservative party and ex-Premier Maura went to King Alfonso and told him his act constituted a condemnation of the conservative policies of rigorous repression at Barcelona, and of the execution of Ferrer and that such a proceeding was dangerous to the future of Spain.
The Catholic newspaper "Universal" claims the change of ministry is due to the necessity of combating the growing republican and socialist forces of the liberal Maura and demands the return of the conservatives and that the mystery be cleared.

"A monopoly of the iron and steel trade in this country," said Mr. Farrell, "is neither possible nor desirable. There is no monopoly or anything approaching it. Since the steel corporation was organized there has been much new capital attracted to the industry and many furnaces have been built which are not controlled by the steel corporation."
"It is charged that the corporation is seeking to drive other countries out of the export market. That is far from the truth."
Tells of Trade.
"It is true that before the steel corporation was formed the steel exports of the United States amounted to about 200,000 tons a year. Last year the exports of the United States Steel corporation were about two millions valued at $60,000,000 as against Germany's five million tons."

MUCH INTEREST IN TODAY'S ELECTION

DESPITE LACK OF TEAMS VOTE IS GETTING OUT IN ALL THE DIFFERENT WARDS.

VOTE IS FAIRLY HEAVY

Results Will Be Received at the Gazette Office. This Evening and Posted on Bulletin Boards.

Despite the fact the corrupt practices law of the state prohibits the use of rigs to haul voters to and from the booths, there are a goodly number of citizens who have taken enough interest in the question as to whether Janesville shall or shall not have the commission form of government to walk to the polls today.

The canvass of the votes at one-thirty this afternoon showed 225 in the first ward, 225 in the second, 250 in the third, 225 in the fourth, and 160 in the fifth ward. This is considerably heavier than two years ago when there was a similar question up for consideration, and it is expected the vote will be very close.

The Gazette has made arrangements to have the result of the vote telephoned from the different polling places as soon after seven as it can be obtained, and by a quarter after that hour the final result should be known. It will be posted on bulletin boards in the office window so that all who desire can see it.

The absence of the rigs and ward workers at today's election is due to the state law, the requirements of which were published last evening. It is, considering all, a quiet election, and while several good-sized bets have been made on the outcome, the final result will be in doubt until the final vote is cast this evening at seven o'clock.

MORE PROTESTS MADE ON NEW VALUATIONS

Archibald and Lovejoy Estate Apply To Board of Review for Lower Assessments on Residences.

Two more appeals from the valuations made by the Tax Commission answers were heard by the Board of Review when it resumed its sessions at the City Hall at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The former asked a reduction of the assessment from $27,000 to $15,000, and the latter from $24,000 to $15,000.
Attorney M. G. Jeffries appeared for both complainants and conducted the cross questioning in their behalf. Charles S. Cleland, C. P. Harris, Frank L. Stevens, and David W. Watt were called to the stand to testify in both cases, and William Hladon was a witness for the Lovejoy estate. The evidence given was chiefly with regard to what the houses would bring at a private sale. Assessors J. V. Cowling and P. A. Crocker were sworn and presented testimony to uphold their valuations.

The board of review will probably complete its work at noon tomorrow.

WRECK NEAR AFTON NARROWLY AVERTED

Prompt Action of Engineer Shekey Prevents Disastrous Accident

Near Afton Last Night.
Prompt work on the part of Engineer A. S. Shekey on Northwestern passenger train No. 629 due here at 6:45 last evening prevented a serious accident about two and a half miles south of Afton, shortly after six-thirty last evening.

The accident was caused by the breaking of a transom beam on the tender. The broken ends dropped down on the ties and acted as a brake to the train which was traveling at the rate of fifty miles an hour. Engineer Shekey at once realized the danger of the situation and stopped the rushing train as soon as possible, without injury to any of the train crew or passengers.

Had the train gone twenty feet further it would have been on a grade crossing where the planks of the crossing which rise above the road bed as high as the rails would have caused the coaches to pile up imperiling the lives of a hundred or more people. Fireman W. B. Summers was in the engine cab at the time of the accident. Conductor J. J. Dulin of this city was in charge of the train which leaves Chicago at four o'clock in the afternoon. It is one of the fastest trains running between Chicago and Janesville as it makes a distance of 195 miles in two hours and forty-five minutes with nine stops.

It was necessary to have the passenger taken back to Hololt, where they were taken to Janesville by the way of the Interurban, and were transferred here to the north bound train leaving here at eleven o'clock. It was after mid-night when the disabled engine and train was brought into the local railway yards.

THREE LOCAL TEAMS TO PLAY THIS WEEK

Cardinals Play Hardest Game of Season—Janesville Meets Beloit And Y. M. C. A. Goes to Evansville.

Basket ball fans will be kept busy Friday trying to keep track of all of two local teams which have good games scheduled for that night. The game which will be pulled off in the city is that which the Cardinals have with the New York Nationals to play at the rink. This team has a national reputation as well as name and for the past three years has been doing things in basket ball which placed them at the head of their class. Of the forty-one games which they played in 1909 all ended in their favor with the exception of three while last year they wrestled two games from the famous Company K at Portage, on their annual tour of the country. They have been making good so far this year while coming west and will arrive with the expectation of winning a game from the local five. Despite their good intentions, however, the Cardinals intend to give them as good a fight as they have had for some time. They are both good teams and such a combination usually furnishes a fast hard game which is generally interesting to watch even though the Janesville boys are defeated.

Beloit-Janesville Thursday.
On Thursday night the high school team will journey to Beloit to school team will journey to Beloit to meet their ancient rivals from the Line City. This is the game of the season which the local boys are most anxious to win, and it is with blood in their eyes and gritted teeth that they have been practicing for the game. In past years they have succeeded in running away from the Beloit bunch and they do not plan to let their opponents spring any surprise on them this time.

Y. M. C. A. Plays Evansville
Members of the Y. M. C. A. first team are planning on a hard game on Friday night as the other two teams as they go to Evansville to play the Out Off city boys a return game. They will be on the lookout for any surprises which may be in store for them such as they sprang on the unsuspecting visitors from that city when they defeated them by a large score and sent them home to practice up. With the game at home Evansville plans to get even with the local association five and get back their reputation here by some means or other.

A game may also be played sometime within a few weeks between the local Business Men's team and the Evansville men's class. It is not certain when this will come off but an effort is being made by Physical Director Hartwell to bring it about. He tried to get Whitewater to come down here for a return game but as they are not playing any out of town games they may not come. If they do go on the road Janesville will get the first game and will make up for the defeat last week.

RUSK-FORUM GAME TO BE HELD SOON

Forum Literary Society Accepts Challenge to Basketball Game.—Plan Blight Ride Party.

At the regular meeting of the Forum Literary Society, held last evening in the high school building, preparations were made for a basketball game which will be played with a team represented by the Rusk Lyceum. The latter society issued the challenge to their rival society, Fred Cunningham was elected captain of the Forum team and Roy Cannon will act as manager. A date will be named for the game in the near future.

On next Monday evening the members of the Forum will enjoy a sleigh-ride party in place of the regular literary program.

After the business meeting last night a short program was given and the Forum quartette favored the society with several selections.

DODGERS COME OUT
AHEAD LAST NIGHT

Slipped Two Games From Tigers During Evening—Sutherland High with 100 and 174 Average.

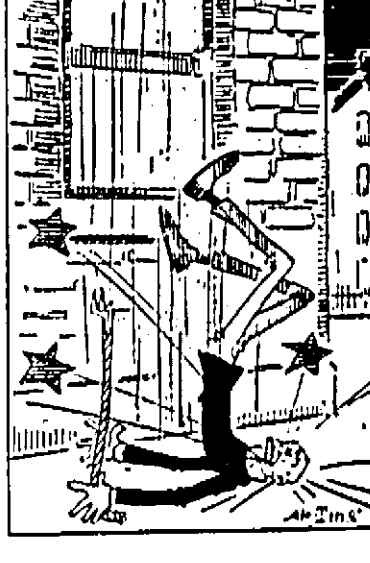

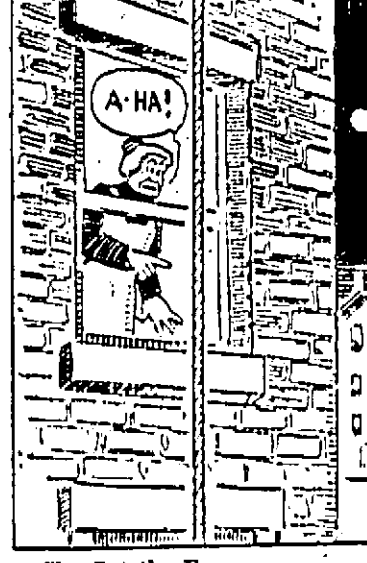

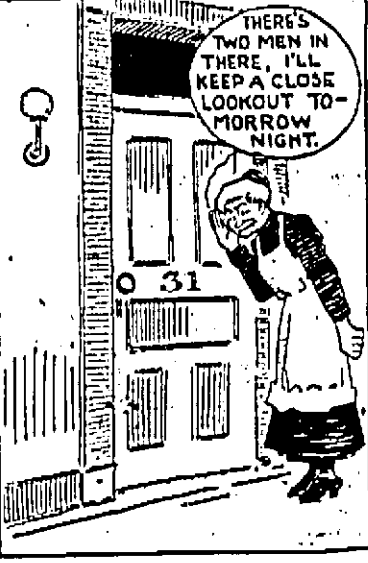

Although the Tigers started out by winning the first game last evening at Harlow's alley, they were unable to hold the pace and the Dodgers took the next two. Sutherland starred with his usual good scoring, making high score with 100 points and highest average with 174 points. Harlow came next with single game and average, getting 183 plus in the third game with an average of 160. The Tigers were also defeated in the total number of points, being able to make only 2201 to their opponents' 2223.

Tonight the Sox and the Giants will meet to try conclusions at the alleys and a close battle is evidently on the boards as both teams are good bowlers. Last night's scores and line-ups were as follows:

UNITED DOCTORS
WARN PATIENTS

IMITATORS COMING TO MYERS HOTEL NOT CONNECTED WITH UNITED DOCTORS.

MAKE NO MISTAKE.

THEY HAVE NO TRAVELING DOCTORS—PATIENTS RECEIVED AT JANEVILLE, RACINE OR 'EAU CLAIRE INSTITUTE ONLY.

The famous United Doctors who have their Eau Claire Institute in the Drummond and Laycock building, on S. Barstow street, their Racine, Institute at 626 Wisconsin street, and their Janesville Institute in the Hayes building, announce they have no traveling doctors.

This announcement is made as several physicians are touring the state using the name United Doctors and, many people have patronized them in the belief they were patronizing a traveling doctor of the original United Doctors.

The Original United Doctors only receive Wisconsin patients in their Eau Claire, Racine or Janesville Institutes and people should not be misled by any advertisements made by traveling doctors regarding it, as the United Doctors positively receive patients at no other place than at one of the above institutes. They send no doctors to hotels to receive patients whatever.

Janesville people and those in the vicinity who wish the United Doctors' services can do no better than to visit the Janesville Institute in the Hayes building, corner of Milwaukee and Main streets, or to write them.

The United Doctors mean to cast no reflection upon the traveling doctors who are touring the state under a similar name—but make this announcement for self-protection.

The remarkable success of these expert specialists with their non-surgical methods of treating all cases is well known and it will pay the sick to go direct to them when possible and if they cannot call should write.

This announcement will appear in papers throughout the state, where the traveling doctors trade on the name United Doctors.

A HEALTHY, HAPPY OLD AGE

May be promoted by those who gently cleanse the system, now and then, when in need of a laxative remedy, by taking a desertspoonful of the ever refreshing, wholesome and truly beneficial Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, which is the only family laxative generally approved by the most eminent physicians, because it acts in a natural, strengthening way and warms and tones up the internal organs without weakening them. It is equally beneficial for the very young and the middle aged, as it is always efficient and free from all harmful ingredients. To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine, bearing the name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package.

THE THEATERS

"A HOUSE DIVIDED" WILL APPEAR HERE

Sydney Ainsworth, Formerly of Madison, And Well Known Star, One of Cast in Attraction Saturday.

"A House Divided" a new comedy from the pen of H. S. Sheldon, author of "The Haves" one of the most sensational successes in years will be seen at the Myers Theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening, Jan. 27. This play will begin a run at the Whitney Opera House in Chicago Monday night, January 29, and the people of Janesville will have an opportunity to judge of its merits before Chicago sees it. The piece is a comedy of modern type. It has to do with marital troubles, as did the "The Haves" but it deals with them in an entirely different manner, and any dissatisfied married couples will do well to see the play, as it will work a cure for marital troubles.

The plot, in brief, has to do with the trials of a couple who have quarreled twenty years before the opening of the piece. At that time they separated and decided to set up separate establishments. The man takes the son and the woman the daughter. Thus they live from year to year, each with his or her own servants and retainers, at bitter partisans. In due time there is a suitor for the daughter's hand, who is repulsed by the mother and daughter. Then, he decides that the only way to get the hand of the daughter is to bring the well-to-do man and wife together again, and he sets about to do this, the story of which is best told in the play. There are many very highly amusing situations in the piece, and one big scene, in which tears are always plentifully used.

This play will be offered by the following superb cast of players: Dodson L. Mitchell, Sydney Ainsworth, Ralph Morgan, Lafayette McKee, Harriet Otis Dellabaugh, Gladys Wynne, Alice Seymour and Marjorie Harris. Mr. Sheldon, the author of the piece, will be in Janesville to superintend the two performances of his newest play. Mr. Ainsworth formerly lived at Madison and has a number of friends and acquaintances in this city.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM.

Those who love the rickety stories of Irish life such as Charles Lever might write, will find a special charm in the play "Love's Young Dream," which Fiske O'Hara is presenting this season and which shortly will be presented here at the Myers Theatre Friday, Jan. 26. This new work is a story of the same period as Charles O'Malley and Harry Lorrequer, and has that same droll atmosphere in which the pulse of the reader or auditor beats faster and with good wholesome blood. It is the period of which gallantry held sway; when for love's sake a young blade was willing to face his hunter at the dangerous stone fence, or try his luck in the duello. Of such a character is the hero of "Love's Young Dream," Mr. O'Hara is exceptionally happy in a role of this kind and he is said to have made the greatest success of his career as Harry Carroll, the dashing young physician who is the central figure of the story. With a lot of new songs and some old-time favorites there can be hardly any doubt of the popularity of Mr. O'Hara's latest play.

I tried several kinds of kidney medicine and I was in the drug store looking for something different to help him when I heard of Foley Kidney Pills. After he had taken them two days we could see a change and when he had taken two thirds of a bottle he was cured. That is about six weeks ago and he has not wet in bed since." Badger Drug Co.

COLE'S LAND AGENCY

MARSHFIELD, WISCONSIN.

IN previous issues of this paper we have made public announcements of certain concessions to individual purchasers of the line of automobiles handled and controlled by us in the city of Janesville and immediate vicinity.

The offer referred to was predicated on the proposition that at that time we had no accredited representation in the locality referred to. We certainly felt that, "The laborer is worthy of his hire" and it is certainly true in the automobile business. Any reputable representative selling automobiles who keeps his guarantee inviolate and looks after the wants of his customer is not only entitled to the compensation he receives in the way of a profit, but we feel he is inadequately paid. In making the proposition that we made we assumed such responsibility. We felt and do feel that the Buick, White and Oldsmobile are so superior in quality and value that they should be representative cars in this locality.

Since the announcement of the special proposition was made (even though the time was brief) we have closed a number of deals and have a number of others pending. Nothing contained in this announcement is intended in any way to abrogate any agreements made to date or tentative agreements pending on which quotations have been made.

Through the columns of The Gazette we expect in the future from time to time to make public announcements describing the salient features of the cars that we handle and produce through this medium such evidence as our ability commands, to the buying public that they may know, as we feel they ought to know, that in buying one of our cars they are getting the best value, as well as the best and most substantial guarantee, which so largely contributes as an essential feature in the purchase of an automobile.

The special proposition referred to was made and was to hold good only so long as we were without a creditable representation in Janesville and vicinity. We are pleased to advise that negotiations are now pending which we are certain will soon be consummated which will mean that in the very near future we will have a creditable representative controlling the territory there and in near vicinity. Our cars, unlike a great many others that are handled in this locality, represent an honest value in themselves as per list price and do not carry with them the unusual concessions that others do that have a list price that is unwarranted. We feel that our representative has a right to ask the published price for our cars and that the guarantee, service and protection on every car sold, together with the necessary expenses of maintenance and cost of selling, will only be inadequately covered by the small profit that he or we receive.

In this connection we wish to express our thanks for the patronage we have received and it affords us ample evidence that the Buick especially is certainly on the map in this locality and that by proper representation, carrying with it all that the word implies, it will not be long before it will outnumber all other cars in this locality. The construction, beauty, and performance of the car together with the stability, immensity and magnificence of the institution back of it, certainly warrants that the Buick should be in the van of the procession.

In view of the contemplated arrangements for the representation referred to herein the special offer previously published is hereby withdrawn. We nevertheless invite your inquiries and will see to it that in the near future the public will be advised of the personnel of our representation referred to.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Janesville and vicinity: Fair and colder tonight and Wednesday.

IS NEARLY OVER.

But a few minutes after seven tonight the public will know whether the voters of Janesville have decided to adopt the commission form of government or reject it. Much has been said pro and con of the question which is one of the problems of today. The columns of the Gazette have published articles for and against the proposed change and it is certain the readers have had an ample opportunity to judge for themselves whether they prefer the present method or the commission form of government. The election is nearly over.

In the last few days the opponents of the change have tried to center the fight upon the Gazette's desire to run city affairs without success. While perhaps all the stockholders of the Janesville Electric Company are not stockholders in the Janesville Electric Company it is safe to say the majority of the stock is held by the owners of the Electric Company who really control the policy. The Gazette has no axe to grind in this present discussion, has no candidate to back for the office of commissioners should it be adopted, and merely threw its columns open to the discussion believing the question was one which should be most thoroughly talked over before accepted or rejected.

Even the blindest of citizens know that the need for a change in the handling of city business is apparent. Know that money could be saved by the economical and business-like administration that three men could give to the city in preference to ten whose interests are divided. No charge of graft by city officials has been hinted at, but a general careless attitude of the council to public needs has been commented upon.

No matter how the election is decided, whether the commission form is accepted or not, the Gazette believes it has done its duty in giving the question the fullest publicity possible. It has been disinterested in the matter as far as any personal ambition to control is concerned, and believes the people can be trusted to decide matters of this kind without the undue influence of corporate dictation.

COMMISSION RULE OR DUST.

(A fable).
With Apologies to George Ade.

try and dairy farming are neglected in sections of the land generally unaffected by the climatic conditions prevalent throughout the North. The South and Southwest are calling for settlers, and the country is calling for the things that settlers in the South and Southwest can supply in abundance. A more general cultivation of the soil, a more general appreciation of the opportunities which this broad land holds out to the willing, and the industries and a better system of distribution would make wholly unnecessary the perils of food shortages and the consequent skyward shoot of prices. Such a cultivation would mean also encouraging occupation for thousands who are now bent to the unremunerative drudgery of the town and city.

A FACT, NOT FABLE.

One of the first things a man trying to influence voters how to act in the polls should be to know the aldermen of the city, at least by sight. One of the most ardent paid workers against the commission form of government recently approached the twin brother of one of the aldermen and disclosed a grand plot to break up the Wilcox meeting a week ago, thinking he was talking to the alderman. The joke of the affair is that the brother favored the commission form of government.

The plot, it is needless to say, fell by its weight, but unfortunately did not bury the ardent worker.

Schuster says that England is the only Power in Europe that can save Persia from Russia's greed. Schuster ought to know, for he has just been exiled by Russia from a fat job as minister of finance of the mountain kingdom.

Now that the commission question is practically decided let's get together and make the coming state convention of the League a success. The more conventions Janesville gets the better it will be for the city.

Say Master Citizen, did you go to the polls today and vote how you wanted the city affairs conducted? If you did not you have no reason to complain if matters are not conducted as you wish at the city hall.

Black River Falls is having its own troubles these days. Flood, fire and general want have stricken this once prosperous little community with dire calamity.

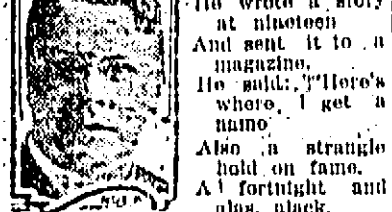

There is plenty of time for political atmosphere in the country to change completely around before the June days of the pre-convention period.

Senator Cummins is already in the seat of the bus that starts soon for the republican national convention. The more the merrier.

Now the Chinese royal family have decided not to abdicate after the leaders of the republic had it all fixed they would.

Wilson considers the Harvey trouble a mere episode. Well, perhaps it is, but Editor Waterson does not consider it one.

SPUR OF THE MOMENT

THE USUAL WAY.
He wrote a story at nineteen and sent it to a magazine. He said: "Here's where I get a name."

Also a strange hold on fame. At fourteen and a half, black. They sent his splendid romance back. The editor, disappointed indeed, said that it didn't fit his need. Of course rejection didn't mean it might not suit SOMÉ magazine.

The author sent it out once more and it came back same as before. Nobody seemed to realize. The fact that it was one large prize. By twenty others it was spurned. And to the budding scribe returned. He kept on sending it away. And hoping it would stay, someday. But, like the melancholy cat, it came right back as quick as cat.

Rejection slips he had galore. And every week he got one more. With them he papered every wall from kitchen pantry to front hall. He covered every cupboard shelf. And used them when he shaved himself.

But since that time he's making good. He's dealing now in coal and wood. He's eating now three times a day. And fame has gone the usual way.

HOW TO RUN A FURNACE.
Also at 4 a. m., shake down furnace and put in coal.
At 6 a. m., remove ashes, shake down furnace and put in coal.
At 7 a. m., let down direct draft and open check draft. Put in coal.
At 7:30 a. m., shut check draft, open direct draft and put in coal.
From 7:30 to noon alternate the draft every five minutes and put in coal at same intervals.
12 m.—Put in one more coal.
Repeat the doses of coal every five minutes until 6 p. m.
At 6 p. m. vary the monotony of the treatment by putting in more coal and keep this up at intervals of five minutes until 11 o'clock or bedtime.
At bedtime put in a lot of coal and bank it with ashes. Shut the direct draft and open the check draft or open the direct draft or shut both the check and check drafts. It makes little difference.
From 11 o'clock until morning put on more coal and switch the drafts every half hour. No matter which way the drafts are set, they ought to be the other way so it pays to shift them often. By following these directions carefully you will be able to keep the fire going at least half of the time providing you use the right kind of coal or coke. Of course you never find out which is the right kind for when you are using one find you should be using some other kind. Every kind is better than the kind you are using, your neighbors will tell you, and when you switch to some other kind you are sure to find out that you have made a grave mistake.

The best way to run a furnace is to hire a man, or live in a steam-heated flat.

FROM THE HICKYVILLE CHAIRMAN.
Grandma Purdy, who is in a very feeble state of health, on account of her age, is able to do only light work, at this writing and is taking a break. Frisby's place firm the biter at the stove. Grandma says she expects her mother and father over from West Hickyville in the near future. Her father ain't been feeling very spry of late as he has been suffering powerful bad with the croup.

William Hilder, our groceryman, sold Uncle Ezra Hurdin a wooden gun he mistook the other day and as Uncle Ezra is some near sighted and as his teeth ain't what they used to be, he didn't notice the difference either, only he said the fibre of the meat seemed a mite coarser. Hilder said it was a cured ham and Ezra made him knock off two-shillings, claiming that a ham that had been sick wasn't worth as much as one that never had to be cured of anything.

When Ann Hibbins our gentlemanly (tonorial) artist trims Ned Purdy's whiskers, which has happened twice since Grant was first elected, he has to go over to the tin shop and borrow the tinners' shears. Last time he broke the handles off short with his exhortations to cut Ned's beard and had to buy a new pair. He got 15 cents for the hair cut and had to pay $2.35 for a new pair of tinners' shears and don't think he will ever be flush enough to establish any barber or give away any more modals.

But Hilder has got up such a muscle by practice on the side prop-bag that he can punch the bag for further orders. And used to play the mouth organ regular, but it scraped his moustache off all the time, and his wife made him quit as she don't like him any more.

KE-NO-SHE-EA CLUB
IN ANNUAL MEETING

New Officers Elected Following Banquet Last Night.—Increase Capital Stock to $4,000.

New officers were elected, an amendment to the articles of incorporation adopted and resolutions upon the death of their late member, Dr. J. W. St. John, passed at the annual meeting of the Ke-no-she-ea Club, held at the Myers Hotel last evening following a banquet served in the south dining room. E. H. Parker, W. H. Appleby and Sanford Soverhill were elected members of the board of directors and they in turn elected other officers. W. H. Appleby was named president and James A. Fattoria secretary and treasurer.

By the amendment to the articles of incorporation agreed upon the capital stock was increased from $1,500 to $4,000. Improvements to the club's property were discussed but no action taken on the plans proposed. The club now owns seventy acres of land on Pickett Lake in Forest county, on which is a log club house, 80x20 feet in dimensions. A caretaker lives there throughout the year.

The following resolution upon the death of Dr. J. W. St. John was passed and agreed at length upon the records of the club:

WHEREAS, it has pleased the Creator and Conservator of the Universe to remove from his sphere of earthly usefulness our well-beloved club comrade, Dr. J. W. St. John, and promote him to where life is eternal and usefulness is unlimited.

And Whereas, The Ke-no-she-ea Club loses in him one of its most active and enthusiastic members; a man who was always to the front for anything that would promote true sportsmanship with regard to the laws of the land; and also one whose hand was always outstretched to aid the needy and alleviate suffering, without thought as to whether the act would rebound to either his fame or fortune; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of the dear old "Snit," as we loved to call him with the freedom of comrades, the Ke-no-she-ea Club loses one of its honored pioneer members and the community a citizen of rare ability, great talent and wide benevolence.

Resolved, That owing to his most modest disposition, but few knew of his good deeds, and that not from his words, he believed in doing good because it was right and not for his own fortune or the applause of the multitude.

Resolved, That J. W. St. John was a man among men and we, who mourn him not as lost, but simply gone before, trust to meet him some time in the Happy Hunting Grounds where the poucher will come from troubling and the pot-hunter will be a thing of the past.

Resolved, That an engrossed copy of these resolutions be presented to the widow of the deceased, and that they also be agreed at length on the records of the club, and that a copy be sent to the local papers for publication.

Advantage of High Living.
Medical scientists have arrived at the conclusion, after various experiments, that the blood of persons living at a high altitude is much richer and therefore much more capable of resisting disease germs than the blood of persons living near sea level. They also claim that lack of oxygen in the atmosphere at a great height is the cause of mountain sickness.

WANT OF FIREWORKS

Appropriation of $1000 Voted County Training School.—Claim For $200 Damages Presented.

The last session of the common council previous to the election on the question of the adoption by the city of the commission form of government established a new standard for expedition and smoothness in the transaction of city business. Unanimous votes were cast on all bills and propositions presented and not a word of debate was spoken.

Eight of the ten aldermen answered to the call, the absentees being Aldermen Schmiedley and Dulla.

Alderman Hall presented the report of the Finance Committee and the usual number of bills were presented and ordered allowed. Their recommendation that the city treasurer be authorized to pay to the Rock County Teachers' Training School the sum of $1000 out of the general fund for the city's share in its maintenance was approved. The council also directed the city treasurer to pay $1200 to County Treasurer Church, this being half the sum to which the county is entitled from saloon licenses for the past year.

The bond of Oliver Grant for a license to sell liquor at 104 North Academy street, the Railroad Hotel, was presented by Alderman Evans and on his recommendation was adopted. The petition of Charles Carpenter to transfer his saloon license to Oliver Grant was held over two weeks on the motion of Alderman Spohn of the license committee.

A claim for damages against the city of Janesville in the sum of $200 was presented by William Mueller, 230 Western avenue. He declares that because of a defective sidewalk he fell and broke his wrist while walking south on Jackson street near the corner of Center street. The accident occurred when a newly laid cement walk ended abruptly at a higher grade than the gravel walk it adjoined.

The council adjourned until Wednesday evening on the motion of Alderman Evans when it will canvass the vote cast on the commission plan of government.

WHOLESALE BAKERS IN CITY TODAY AT STATE CONVENTION

Business Sessions Held at the Grand Hotel Closing With a Banquet This Evening.

Janesville is today entertaining the first annual convention of the Wholesale Bakers' association of the state. This association was organized in June last August and today's sessions are the first annual meeting which will include the election of officers and close with a banquet this evening.

A. J. Wilbur of this city is president of the association and F. C. Luebbe of Oakbrook secretary. Some twenty representatives of leading bakers in the state from Milwaukee, Madison, Beloit, Kenosha, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Racine, La Crosse, Superior, Ashland and Green Bay are present.

During the business sessions trade matters were discussed and Prof. Commons, state industrial commissioner, gave a talk. The election of officers will be held late this afternoon at the conclusion of the regular business of the convention proper.

This evening at seven, a banquet will be served at which Mr. Wilbur of this city will preside as toastmaster. State Senator John M. Whitehead will talk on the relation of the Legislature to business, and W. H. Dougherty of this city will speak on the value of organization. Among the other speakers of the evening will be Matt Carpenter of Milwaukee, and George Foran of this city, representing the Washburn-Crosby company of Minneapolis.

The eleventh annual State Convention of the Oideans—the Christian Commercial Traveling Men's Association, will be held in Janesville in May. The exact dates have not been decided upon, but will be either May 11th and 12th, or 18th and 19th. The convention comes to Janesville at the invitation of the Janesville Camp and preparations are under way for one of the most successful and interesting conventions ever held in the state. Programs will be issued in the near future.

These conventions have always been inspirational and beneficial not only to the salesmen present, but also to the communities in which they are held. This convention will receive the hearty endorsement of the people of Janesville, as many of their salesmen are members.

Plans are also under way to furnish tables to the hotels of the city, in which the people of Janesville will be asked to assist. Over 125,000 bibles have been placed in the guest-rooms of many leading hotels in the United States, and the work is being pushed until it is hoped every hotel guest-room shall have a bible. This work is meeting the approval of not only church people, but many outside the church, and the good resulting from it will never be known fully. National headquarters, however, are receiving letters almost daily from persons telling how they have been kept from suicide or falling into temptation from reading portions of the bible.

BUTTER DROPS DOWN; POTATOES STILL UP

Some Prophecy Higher Butter Still—Potatoes Are Scarce Yet—Carload of Oranges Received.
Butter has gone down today from 45c@46c as far as 42c@43c a pound, with dairy selling at from 35c@42c. Authorities over the country prophecy a butter and egg famine although this may be the trick of some dealers to keep the prices up. Those who have large quantities of storage butter are very scarce and most of the large merchants have far less than in years past and claim that this is indicative of a shortage later.
A carload of oranges was received by local dealers today and being the first for some time to be shipped, are coming just in time to fill the demand. They are in very good condition although they were shipped directly from Florida.
Potatoes and eggs are still scarce and high though the potato shortage is expected to be brought to a close within a week at the longest. Many new vegetables and fruits are being offered today as a result of the warm weather and the increased safety in shipping. Today's prices are the same as Saturday's and are quoted below.

CHIROPRACTIC

(KI-RO-PRAK-TIK)

A perfect spine insures perfect health. An imperfect spine causes disease. Your health is indicated by the kind of spine you have. Because you have no pain in your back is no proof your back bone is in perfect order. If a nerve connected with the stomach is pinched at the spine the stomach will be diseased. If the nerves supplying the heart are pinched or stretched, the heart will be diseased. This is true of all other organs and tissues.

Your spine may not be noticeably deformed to the eye or even to the touch of the untrained person but remember he is not a spine specialist. However slight the deformity, the Chiropractor will discover it and correct it.

Chiropractic (Ki-ro-prac-tic) adjustments, by restoring normal action to the nerves, supply new life force to weakened ligaments and muscles; displaced organs resume their normal position; inflammation subsides abnormal tissue growths are removed without the use of the knife.

There is a first cause for every pain in the body. The sooner you have the cause removed, the easier and quicker you will get well. Have the cause removed so nature can cure.

The distinction of High Quality minus the High Price which we claim for Mex-o-ja coffee is made possible because of our superior facilities for selecting the berries from the famous coffee producing countries of Sao Paulo, Brazil, and the mountainous districts of Mexico. Certain berries which we select from these varieties compose the blend of Mex-o-ja. We can offer you Mex-o-ja at a reasonable price solely on account of our superior ORGANIZATION, since we are the largest coffee merchants and roasters in the world, with branches in all the famous coffee producing and selling centers.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

Reforming a Boy.

AMOTHER writes to ask for advice in regard to a wayward son. She says she has done all she can think of and is at her wits' end. She has made the home attractive. She has pointed out the error of his ways and what his conduct will ultimately lead to. But none of this has any effect upon him.

This mother has an extremely hard problem to solve, as any one who has had such an experience knows. She should not be deceived about it. To teach a boy of seventeen to know and love the good is much harder than to train him in it from a child. A little child, with nature unwarped, can be trained to love the good. It is put to him in the right way, and he can be led into paths of pleasantness. But when he has chosen his own path, and corrupted his mind with wrong associations, it is a difficult task to make him see and know the right.

Perhaps this advice from one who has studied the subject may help. "It is not persuasion or environment that reforms a life, but the awakening of its own innate energies," says this teacher.

Here may be help for this mother. Let her rouse their innate energies. If she does not yet know what they are, let her watch her son until she discovers them.

What is it that he does when away from home? What is it that he likes in the associates he chooses? What is it that he falls to like in his home? Perhaps in these things she may find the key. Or let her put out some bait to tempt him to do things which she thinks he will care for.

Latent, dormant, he has energies, which if once aroused will sweep him resolutely into the path of wholesome activity. There is something he cares to do, if presented to him in the right way. Or there is some motive that will wake him up, if it is brought to bear upon him in the right light. Good is stronger than evil. Evil is after all only ignorance. An active, useful life can be made to look so good that he will hunger for it.

Sometimes a complete change of scene will help to arouse these latent energies. If this boy could be removed completely from his present associates, and put among boys of his own age, who are doing something worth while, not in one line, but in a variety of lines, so that he would have room for choice, it might do him good.

But if this mother will, with the keen eyes of mother love, watch him and study him and see what will rouse his latent energies, who will soon find the key to unlock the door to a useful life. It is a much better way than coaxing or scolding. Coaxing infatuates to conceit, and scolding hardens. But awakening his energies rouses the man in him. And this is what needs to be brought to life.

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON.

"OU DEAR, I do so hate to have any, 'Haven't you something less expensive?' I heard a young girl complain the other day. 'I do hope the time will come when I shall have some money, so that I can go into a shop and order what I want and not even ask the price.'

Let me tell you, little girl, and all your sisters who have felt the same way when the time comes that you have "some money," as you put it, it is very likely that you will be just as much interested in prices, and not so much afraid to show your interest as you are now.

That is, if you are like the average woman of means. Do you know, I am constantly more impressed with the fact that it appears to be only the rich people who dare to be economical, only the people who don't need to count the pennies who are willing to be seen counting them.

A day or two after Christmas, the time when bargains are supposed to grow on every tree, I went shopping. And the thing that impressed me, even more than the bargains I found, was the number of richly dressed, and evidently well-to-do women, who were bargaining.

You would certainly have thought, from the way these women were dressed, that they were of the class who might go into any shop at any season of the year and order anything they wanted without even inquiring the price. And yet there they were, standing there deep around the counter, waiting their turn for a share of the clerk's attention, and even enduring the manifold discomforts of shopping on a stormy morning, in order to take advantage of the bargains.

The other day a neighbor of mine, who has a very comfortable income, set off on a journey across the continent. And how do you suppose he started on that journey? He walked down to the station beside the gardener who pushed a wheelbarrow loaded with his master's trunk.

Now I'll wager that none of his less prosperous neighbors would have dared to do that. They would have thought it absolutely necessary at least to have the trunk taken down by an expressman, and probably to have hired a cab.

So it goes. Those who need to look long at the pennies before they spend them, don't even dare to be careless of their dollars aren't afraid to be seen counting the pennies.

"Perhaps," someone reminds me, "perhaps it is because these people didn't stop counting their pennies the moment properly throw a glance their way, that she continues to abide with them, instead of merely making them the fleeting visits she pays to most of us."

Well, there is something in that, my friend.

nor, for their digestions will not take rare of meats in boiling water as easily as of roasts and broiled meats.

A thickened gravy is not as easily digested as the juices that flow from meat cooked by contact with hot air or coals and doubtless the gravy of a stew is often the source of discomfort attributed to other causes.

A family of out door workers can use to advantage tougher portions of meat provided that these are cooked well. But those who stay in doors and who have been accustomed to delicate food cannot make many changes. They must economize in some other way and where food is expensive it is not always economy to buy meat that requires long slow cooking unless a fireless cooker is used.

Eating more substitutes for some articles of food is also advised as a means of lessening family expenses. If the members of a family prefer to eat substitutes, or feel that they must do so, it is their own affair provided that they know what they are buying and when to pay the lower price asked for a substitute otherwise they are aiding frauds.

Here again the factor of digestibility is to be reckoned with. As an illustration butter melts at a lower temperature than the chief materials used in its most common substitute. It takes a higher temperature to reduce the firmer fat of beef to an oil which it must become before it is emulsified and made use of in the body hence the substitute causes harder work for the digestive organs.

It is possible to economize on coffee if the taste is not too discriminating. Prices run all the way from forty cents for the choicest grades down to fifteen cents for what is called the restaurant coffee. The cheaper grade contains very little coffee but there is chicory enough in it to give it a bitter taste that some people like even when quite strong. One point to remember in coffee is that it takes much more of a twenty cent coffee than of a forty cent brand to make the same quantity of liquid not taking into account the taste at all.

Cereal coffees have some favor but are in no sense a coffee. Served with milk they are palatable but not stimulating and the fault generally found with them is their liability to cause a feeling of fullness and sometimes a headache.

The bulk of the cheap coffee is a myth to the consumer even after studying the grounds left from draining off the liquid. But we know that there are at least two coffee substitutes that sell at wholesale at four and three-quarters cents and six cents a pound. One of these is sold to be largely a by-product from wheat used in making flour and this explains why it is produced so cheaply for the trade.

COMPANY DISHES.

For occasions when one is to entertain we like to prepare something that will be more appetizing. Here are a few dishes that may be used and will prove highly satisfactory.

Escalope of Oysters.—Put a quart of oysters into their own boiling liquor, remove as soon as the edges curl. Drain the oysters and put into a hot dish. Into a saucepan put two tablespoonsful of butter and when it bubbles add a tablespoonful of flour; stir until smooth and add a cup of the oyster liquor. Take from the fire and add two well-beaten eggs, a pinch of salt, a little cayenne pepper and a teaspoonful of lemon juice, with a grating of nutmeg. Beat well, then return to the fire and just get hot, boiling would curdle the eggs. Add the oysters, cover to keep hot and serve at once with salted crackers or small squares of toast.

Trilobed Salad.—Cut one grape fruit and two oranges in sections and free from seeds and membrane. Skin and seed a cup of white grapes, cut a third of a cup of pecan meats into small pieces and mix all the ingredients together. Arrange on lettuce and pour over the following:

Spanish Salad Dressing.—Mix four tablespoonfuls of olive oil with one each of grape juice and vinegar, one-fourth of a teaspoon of paprika, a dash of cayenne and one tablespoonful of finely chopped Roquefort cheese. Let the dressing stand fully five or six hours to season.

Cream Parfait.—Dish a cup of sugar and a half cup of water until it thickens or forms a hard ball in water. Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff and slowly pour over them the hot syrup. When cool add a pint of whipped cream and pack in ice and salt for five hours. Serve with preserved raspberries.

Any other fruit desired may be used with the parfait, but raspberries are especially delicious.

Half of a turnover collar and half of the bow to match are given today. The edge is first padded and then closely buttonholed. The inner seam is also buttonholed and the leaves are worked solid. The stems are done in the outline stitch. The collar must be duplicated to make the "on" article. When the bow is finished, it should be drawn together in the center with a piece of the linen to cover the stitches. The collar is sewed into a band. Colored or mercerized cotton No. 25 may be used.

MRS. HANS FREESE.

HEADS ANTI-MORMON CRUSADE.

New York.—The anti-Mormon campaign which New York women are leading to the Interdenominational Council of Women for Christian and Patriotic Service plan to open with a mass meeting on Jan. 24, with a view to federal action against polygamy, comes at the end of a period of careful investigation of the Mormon church in Utah and abroad.

Hans P. Freese and his wife were sent to Great Britain, Holland, Denmark and Sweden last fall. After a year's work they have returned to this country, and results of their investigation were told to a reporter today by Mrs. Freese.

"Perhaps we all realize that the growth of the Mormon church in America is wonderful, particularly when figures show that the proportion has arisen from one in 125,000 of population to one in about 220 in the eighty years since the Mormon church was started," he said.

"In 1900, authorities say, 5,000 converts were baptized on the other side of the water, and, as usual, most of them emigrated. Most of them were women. There is no way of finding out the exact number of Mormons who come to this country, for the steamship companies refuse to give information, and there is no way of seeing the Mormon books."

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age.
How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I was reared on a farm and had all kinds of heavy work to do which caused the troubles that came on me later. For five years during the Change of Life I was not able to lift a pail of water. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years."

"Now I can do as much work as any woman of my age in the county, thanks to the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I recommend your remedies to all suffering women."—Mrs. MARTHA L. HOLLOWAY, Odd, Va.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidentially) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

RECOGNITION GIVEN TO WORK OF M'LAYS AS HORSE-BREEDERS

Account of Their Important Work in Raising of Clydesdale Horses in This Region.

Following is an account of the work which has been accomplished by the McLay Brothers who reside east of this city, in the breeding of Clydesdale horses. The article appeared in the "Horseman" on January 4th, together with the accompanying cut. It is an appreciative description of what these men have done for the draft horses of this region and is given as follows:

A few miles east of Janesville, Wis., are the two farms, known as "Maple-lawn" and "Arnglibon," the homes of subject, urging them to get better stock on their farms by breeding and selecting for themselves. They believed then as now that if you want a thing done best (for your particular conditions) you must do it yourself.

In those years when horses "went cheap," the McLays never looked back, but kept straight along the path that they had marked out. They loved Clydesdales, and believed that these horses should be bred here as well as imported. When resolved to be known in this country as breeders as well as importers there were a few other vital points which they rightly decided would win success. These points are not copyrighted nor secret, so we feel at liberty to publish them.

First and last, selection and study of individuals were considered of prime importance. The McLays may be said to have won their place in the world of horse breeders because of their keen insight into individual character of the horses in their yards. On account of his naturally strong propensities, a poor Clydesdale sire ly to find upon the farms to which they are sold. No close overheard stalls, no blanketing, no pampering ever falls to their lot. The good effect of this course of conduct is that the buyer secures an animal that is in his natural element; farm bred, farm handled, farm fed and he is ready to go on and make money for his owner. Persistent and always consistent in following these simple but important rules, McLay Brothers have become recognized as the leading Clydesdale breeders in America. They have owned individual animals that have been winners at the exhibitions of the Highland Agricultural Show and the Glasgow Agricultural Show of Scotland. They have secured some of the most really-bred Clydesdales in the world. But it is on account of their example and influence as breeders at home on the farm that we accord them the highest respect. We wish to notice the work of the McLays particularly because they have not only won a place of honor as horse breeders, but they have been instrumental in bringing other farmers to the knowledge

CHILD'S HEAD SOLID MASS OF HUMOR

It Was Awful. Cried Continually.
Had to Hold and Watch Him to Keep Him from Scratching.
Suffering Was Dreadful.

Had not Used Half a Set of Cuticura
Remedies Before Head Was Clear and Free from Eczema.

"I think the Cuticura Remedies are the best remedies for eczema I have ever heard of. My mother had a child who had a rash on its head when it was real young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave me medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was a solid mass, a running sore. It was awful, the child cried continually. We had to hold him and watch him (to keep him) from scratching his head. It was a dreadful sight. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the Resolvent as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His head was healthy and he had a beautiful head of hair. I think the Cuticura Ointment very good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents falling hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Lund, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for sale throughout the world, but to those who have suffered much, lost hope and are without faith in any treatment, a liberal sample of each with 32-p. booklet on the skin will be mailed free on application to Address: Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 1231, Boston.

On these, each a little more than 300 acres in extent, the McLay Brothers have been most closely connected with the breeding of Clydesdale horses since their first introduction into that section of the country, now well noted as draft horse territory. There, for more than a generation, the McLays, father and sons, have been advocating the advantages of, and consistently practicing, home breeding on our Wisconsin farms. Years ago, in their oldest catalogs, they spoke strongly to their neighbors on the

So unerringly have they made their selections and mated their horses that their signal successes have been frequent. Similarly their decision in the matter of feeding and handling their horses has been that no condiments, patent feeds, stimulants, drugs, slops or cooked feeds shall get into the ordinary plain rations of these horses. The barns are ordinary, well equipped farm barns, such as the horses will be like-

This is a lesson well worth learning; a lesson illustrated by the McLay Brothers many times in the splendid individuals bred and raised by them. They have had to their credit the breeding or introducing of such splendid representatives of the breed as Miss Penny, Damada, Dictator, General Davidson, Lady de Bath, Lady Hike, Lady Graceful, Roscoe Winslow, Lady Elegant and Princess Goodwin—a list replete with prize winners.

SEVERE CASE OF APPENDICITIS CURED WITHOUT AN OPERATION.

Prominent Business Man Tried Everything Including Trip to French
Lick Springs, in Search of Relief. Cured by Dr.
Goddard, Milwaukee Specialist.

DR. GODDARD WILL VISIT JANESVILLE ON TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1912. STOPS AT HOTEL MYERS. CONSULTATION FREE.

H. C. Jones, a prominent Milwaukee business man residing at 678 Maryland Ave., Milwaukee, suffered with chronic appendicitis. Mr. Jones endured terrible pain and wasted money in fruitless efforts to find relief. He took an expensive trip to French Lick Springs in Indiana in his search for relief from the terrible agony that made life a burden. Neither the so-called family doctors or the famous Indiana watering place brought any relief. He desisted of ever again remaining his health.

Finally Mr. Jones heard of Dr. Goddard, the eminent Milwaukee Specialist, who visits this city one day each month. He called on the physician. The doctor examined him and told the patient that he could cure him without an operation. The poor sufferer was indeed delighted for he had heard of Dr. Goddard's reputation for not taking any incurable cases.

A year has now passed and Mr. Jones is entirely cured of appendicitis—and without an operation. Naturally his gratitude is great. Mr. Jones has written a letter which we publish below:

"Dr. N. A. Goddard,
"Dear Doctor:
"I take pleasure in advising you that I have not had a day of sickness or pain since you finished treating me for appendicitis over a year ago."

"When I recall the suffering that I experienced previous to that time and the money that I wasted in fruitless efforts to find relief, including an expensive trip to the famous French Lick Springs in Indiana, my gratitude for your rapid and complete cure is greater than I can express."

"I firmly believe that I would not be alive today but for your treatment, and I cannot understand how so many people submit to dangerous and painful operations without first consulting with regard to their condition."

"I feel that it is a privilege rather than an obligation to testify as to your skill in curing this terrible disease and I shall always be glad to refer promptly to me for information as to my recovery. Very sincerely yours—"

H. C. Jones, 678 Maryland Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

MOST OPERATIONS ARE UNNECESSARY.

This newspaper has frequently reported the deaths of prominent men who have fallen victims to the ignorance of doctors who insist on operations for appendicitis. Governor Johnson of Minnesota went to an early grave because of an unnecessary operation for appendicitis. Also Clyde Fitch, the well known play-wright, died as the result of his doctor's ignorance. People who believe that they have appendicitis or gall stones should consult a specialist.

We are indeed fortunate in having such an able specialist as Dr. Goddard visit our city once a month. Many people here in this city owe their lives to his ability to diagnose disease and once having determined the seat of the trouble effect a cure. Such a specialist treats hundreds of cases of appendicitis, gall stones, and rupture, while doctors of general practice treat one and sometimes none. Naturally a man of Dr. Goddard's ability and experience effects cures that appear to be almost miraculous.

ACCEPTS NO INCURABLE CASES.

Dr. Goddard does not accept incurable cases. If the noted specialist says, "I cannot cure you," then you may well believe that your case is hopeless. But if he says, "I can cure you," then you will follow my instructions," then you may well rejoice for the noted specialist feels confident that your case is curable under the proper treatment.

Dr. Goddard is a man of means. He has made a great deal of money from his practice. Every day he accepts cases for a very moderate fee when the patient is unable to pay the doctor's regular charge and in all cases taken on his cash fee plan, he gives a written guarantee of service.

Dr. N. A. Goddard will be at Myers Hotel, Janesville, Wis., Tuesday, Jan. 30, 1912. His office hours are 9:00 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. If you cannot call, write the Milwaukee Specialist at his permanent Milwaukee address, 121 Wisconsin street. Consultation is given free.

CHAPTER I.

Is It the Ghost?

It was the evening of which M. M. Deblenne and Poligny, the managers of the opera, were giving a last gala performance to mark their retirement. Suddenly the dressing-room of La Sorrelli, one of the principal dancers, was invaded by half-a-dozen young ladies of the ballet. They rushed in amid great confusion, some giving vent to forced laughter, others to cries of terror. Sorrelli, who wished to be alone for a moment to "run through" the speech which she was to make to the reigning managers, looked around angrily at the mad and tumultuous crowd. It was little Jammes who gave the explanation in a trembling voice:

"It's the ghost!" And she locked the door.

"Have you seen him?"

"As plainly as I see you now!" said little Jammes.

Thereupon little Gly added:

"If that's the ghost, he's very ugly!"

"Oh, yes!" cried the chorus of ballet-girls.

And they all began to talk together. The ghost had appeared to them in the shape of a gentleman in dress-clothes, who had suddenly stood before them in the passage. He seemed to have come straight through the wall.

For several months there had been nothing discussed at the opera but this ghost in dress-clothes who stalked about the building, from top to bottom, like a shadow, who spoke to nobody, and who vanished as soon as he was seen. The dress-suit had a peculiarity of its own. It covered a skeleton. At least, so the ballet-girls said.

The idea of the skeleton came from the description of the ghost given by Joseph Buquet, the chief scene-shifter. He had run up against the ghost on the little staircase, by the footlights, which leads to "the cellars."

"He is extraordinarily thin and his dress-coat hangs on a skeleton frame. His eyes are so deep that you can hardly see the fixed pupils. His nose is so little worth talking about that you can't see it side-face; and the absence of that nose is a horrible thing to look at."

This chief scene-shifter was a serious, sober, steady man, very slow at imagining things. And then, one after the other, there came a series of incidents so curious that the shrewdest people began to feel uneasy.

For instance, a fireman is a brave fellow! Well, the fireman, who had gone to make a round of inspection in the cellars and who had ventured a little farther than usual, suddenly reappeared on the stage, pale, trembling and practically faint in the arms of the mother of Jammes. And why? Because he had seen coming toward him, at the level of his head, but without a body attached to it, a head of fire!

The fireman's name was Pamplin. To return to the evening in question.

Sorrelli, stealthily, with the tip of her pink ring thumb-nail, made a St. Andrew's cross on the wooden ring which adorned the fourth finger of her left hand. She said to the little ballet-girls:

"Come, children, pull yourselves together! I dare say no one has ever seen the ghost."

"Gabriel saw him, too!" said Jammes. "Only yesterday!"

"Gabriel, the chorus-master?"

"Why, yes, didn't you know? Gabriel was in the stage manager's office. Suddenly the door opened and the Persian entered. You know the Persian has the evil eye—"

"Oh, yes!" answered the little ballet-girls in chorus.

"And you know how superstitious Gabriel is," continued Jammes. "However, he is always polite. Well, the moment the Persian appeared in the doorway, Gabriel gave one jump from his chair to the lock of the cupboard, so as to touch iron! He rushed out of the office like a madman, slipped on the staircase and came down the whole of the first flight on his back. I was just passing with mother. We picked him up. Then he told us he had seen the ghost behind the Persian, the ghost with the death's head, just like Joseph-Buquet's description!"

A silence followed. It was broken by little Gly.

"Joseph Buquet would do better to hold his tongue. Mother says the ghost doesn't like being talked about."

"And why does your mother say so?"

"Because—because—nothing—"

This reticence exasperated the curiosity of the young ladies, who crowded round little Gly, begging her to explain herself.

"I swore not to tell!" gasped Meg.

But they left her no peace until Meg began:

"Well, it's because of the private box. It's box five, you know, the box on the grand tier, next to the stage-box, on the left. Mother has charge of it. No one has had it for over a month, except the ghost, and orders have been given at the box-office that it must never be sold."

"And does the ghost really come there?"

"Yes. And he has no dress-coat and no head. You only hear him when he is in the box. Mother has never seen him, but she has heard him. Mother knows, because she gives him his program."

There was a sound of hurried footsteps in the passage and a voice cried:

"Cecile! Are you there?"

"It's mother's voice," said Jammes. She opened the door. A respectable lady, built on the lines of a Pomeranian grenadier, burst into the dressing-room and dropped groaning into a vacant arm-chair.

"How awful!" she said.

"What?"

"Joseph Buquet is dead! Yes, he was found hanging in the third-door cellar!"

"It's the ghost!" little Gly blurted. Sorrelli was very pale.

"I shall never be able to recite my speech," she said.

Ma Jammes gave her opinion, while she emptied a glass of liqueur that happened to be standing on a table; the ghost must have something to do with it.

The news soon spread all over the opera. The dressing-rooms emptied and the ballet-girls, crowding around Sorrelli like sheep around their shepherdess, made for the foyer through the ill-lit passages and staircases, trotting as fast as their little pink legs could carry them.

CHAPTER II.

The New Marguerite.

On the first landing, Sorrelli ran against the Comte de Chagny, who was coming upstairs.

"I was just going to you," he said, taking off his hat. "Oh, Sorrelli, what an evening! And Christine Dancé! What a triumph!"

"Impossible!" said Meg Gly. "Six months ago she used to sing like a croak! But do let us get by, my dear count," continued the girl, with a curtsy. "We are going to inquire after a poor man who was found hanging by the neck."

Just then the acting manager came tugging past and stopped. "What?" he exclaimed. "Have you girls heard already? Well, please forget about it for tonight—and above all don't let M. Deblenne and M. Poligny hear; they would upset them too much on their last day."

They all went on to the foyer of the ballet, which was already full of never sang like that before."

They were soon at the door leading from the house to the stage. Raoul tore his gloves without knowing what he was doing and Philippe had much too kind a heart to laugh at him for his impatience. But he now understood why Raoul was absent-minded when spoken to and why he always tried to turn every conversation to the subject of the opera.

They reached the stage and pushed through the crowd of gentlemen, scene-shifters, superns and chorus-girls, Raoul leading the way, feeling that his heart no longer belonged to him, his face set with passion, while Count Philippe followed him with difficulty and continued to smile. The count was surprised to find that Raoul knew the way. He had never taken him to Christine's himself and came to the conclusion that Raoul must have gone there alone while the count stayed talking in the foyer with Sorrelli.

Postponing his usual visit to Sorrelli, the count followed his brother down the passage that led to Dancé's dressing-room and saw that it had never been so crammed. The girl had not yet come to; and the doctor of the theater had just arrived at the moment when Raoul entered. Christine, therefore, received the first aid of the one, while opening her eyes in the arms of the other. The count and many more remained crowding in the doorway.

"Don't you think, doctor, that those gentlemen had better clear the room?" asked Raoul coolly. "There's no breathing here."

"You're quite right," said the doctor. And he sent every one away, except Raoul and the maid.

Christine Dancé uttered a deep sigh, which was answered by a groan. She turned her head, saw Raoul and started. She looked at the doctor, on whom she bestowed a smile, then at her maid, then at Raoul again.

"Monsieur," she said, in a voice not much above a whisper, "who are you?"

"Mademoiselle," replied the young man, kneeling on one knee and pressing a fervent kiss on the diva's hand. "I am the little boy who went into the sea to rescue your scarf."

Christine again looked at the doctor and the maid; and all three began to laugh.

Raoul turned very red and stood up. "Mademoiselle," he said, "since you are pleased not to recognize me, I should like to say something to you in private."

"When I am better, do you mind?" (To be continued.)

The Ghost Had Appeared to Them in the Shape of a Gentleman in Dress-Clothes.

people. The Comte de Chagny was right; no gala performance ever equaled this one. Faure and Krauss had sung; and, on that evening, Christine Dancé had revealed her true self, for the first time, to the astonished audience.

The whole house went mad, rising to its feet, shouting, cheering, clapping, while Christine sobbed and fainted in the arms of her fellow-singers and had to be carried to her dressing-room. A few subscribers, however, protested. Why had so great a treasure been kept from them all that time? Till then, Christine Dancé had played a good, Siebel to Carlotto's rather too splendidly material Marguerite. And it had needed Carlotto's incomprehensible absence from this gala night for the little Dancé, at a moment's warning, to show all that she could do in a part of the program reserved for the Spanish diva?

The Comte de Chagny, standing up in his box, listened to all this frenzy and took part in it by loudly applauding. Philippe Georges Marie Comte de Chagny was just forty-one years of age. He was a great aristocrat and a good-looking man, above middle height and with attractive features, in spite of his hard forehead and his rather cold eyes. On the death of old Count Philibert, he became the head of one of the oldest and most distinguished families in France, whose arms dated back to the fourteenth century. His two sisters and his brother, Raoul, would not hear of a division and waived their claim to their shares.

The Comtesse de Chagny, nee de Monrois de La Martinière, had died in giving birth to Raoul, who was born twenty years after his elder brother. Philippe busied himself actively with the youngster's education. The lad entered the Borda training-ship, finished his course with honors and quietly made his trip round the world. Thanks to powerful influence, he had just been appointed a member of the official expedition on board the Requin, which was to be sent to the Arctic Circle in search of the survivors of the D'Arrol's expedition, of whom nothing had been heard for three years. He was a little over twenty-one years of age and looked eighteen. He had a small, fair mustache, beautiful blue eyes and a complexion like a girl's.

On that evening, Philippe, after applauding the Dancé, turned to Raoul and saw that he was quite pale. "Don't you see," said Raoul, "that the woman's fainting?"

"You look like fainting yourself," said the count. "What's the matter?" But Raoul had recovered himself and was standing up.

"Let's go and see," he said, "she

Mustard's Quick Relief Without the Blister!

You remember the good old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Your mother and your grandmother used to apply it whenever you had a cold, an ache or a pain.

It burned like sixty, but it surely did the work.

Here is the old family remedy, greatly improved by science and put in Twentieth Century form—

THE QUICK AND BLESSED RELIEF WITHOUT THE BLISTER OF THE MUSTARD, OR THE BOTHER AND MESSINESS OF THE PLASTER.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. For MUSTEROLE, the oil of the highest grade of mustard is refined until it is as pure as human skill can make it.

You simply rub it on the spot where the pain is—rub it on briskly—and the pain is gone!

Not a blister is left even on tender skin! Instead it has a delicious, comforting effect.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By HOWARD L. RANN.

TAMMANY HALL. A collection of patriotic and perspiring citizens whose eyes are dedicated to the uplift and the cause of better government. Tammany always places the man above the dollar when there is any counterfeited money in circulation. Its headquarters are in New York, but it is suspected of maintaining a branch office and distributing agency in Janesville when the legislature is in session. Tammany's principal business is to disseminate and other bankable paper just prior to an election, and it employs a large force of uplifters who do not expect to be rewarded in this life. One of the most popular and improving measures in New York is to shut the power of Tammany, which is always done on the day before election. This task is usually assigned to a committee of earnest and respectable citizens in plug hats, who are divided between a desire to purge the city and serve on the board of aldermen. There are a great many people in New York who would like to see Tammany broken up into infinitesimal fragments if they were sure there would be enough offices to go around. Tammany is a secret organization and is harder to get into than a last year's union suit. Nobody speaks well of Tammany in New York except the newspaper which licks the city politics and it doesn't make any profuse front exhibits on the editorial page. Tammany never relies upon efficient method of casting the votes and then sealing that they are properly counted by the friends of reform. It has considerable real property in the form of assemblymen and congressmen and a working agreement with others in the form of a lease of shares. Tammany's modesty is shown in the fact that it carries not who makes the laws so long as it makes the general assembly.

According to the Agreement.

"Look here," said Dilthers angrily, "you said this car to me last week, guaranteeing that it was odorless, and now it smells like a benzine trust."

"That isn't the car you smell," said the agent. "It's the gasoline."—Hearst's Weekly.

The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

I asked old Skaggs, who deals in greens, if he had any first class beans. He struck my attitude and cried: "I'm pointing to my beans with pride. No man ever gathered from the vine such all-fired lovely beans as mine. So eat, you'll find my beans are still the best. And when at last your spirit flies to roam the gardens of the whole, you'll find no beans whose hours sleep, as good as these I sell dirt cheap." I asked old Skaggs about his pump. "You'll never find such pump as these," he said, "and when it comes to squash, no man can rival me, brook? Canned pumpkin? Well, that's where I shine! There's nothing half so good as mine, and this here cheese—oh, thunder, man! Just find its equal if you can!" His trade is falling off, they say, and he'll do broke some winter day, for folks don't like to trade with Skaggs, who shows no judgment when he brags.
